Question:

Section "Body" Item #2:

Please define barn-style and panel-style compartment doors?

Answer:

Barn-door style compartment doors means two doors opening outwards from the middle, hinges to be vertical. All lower compartments are to be barn-door style; two doors on each lower compartment opening, meeting and latching in the middle of the compartment opening.

Panel-style doors means a single flat panel door, opening upwards, hinges to be horizontal. All side upper body compartments are to be panel-style; one large panel to open upwards.
