

The owner is responsible for ensuring that the siting of all buildings and structures meets the requirements of all bylaws and regulations.

The site plan must include the following:

- name of adjacent roads and dimensions of property (outside property line measurements)
- distance of all proposed and existing buildings from the property lines and from other buildings
- distance of proposed buildings from any body of water or watercourse (horizontal and vertical distance from natural boundary of seasonal creek, lake, river, marsh, etc)
- location of proposed and existing driveways in relation to lot lines and any nearby existing driveways across the road (required for assigning a house number)
